

ECO COACHING

As part of the mission of the Foundation for the support of ecology "ECO FOR LIFE"

Earth on a "divine, cosmic scale" is a separate organism, which (comparing it to the human body) has "wonderful" self-regenerating properties and ability to rebuild some damage. Man has become important, if not the most important, element of the functioning (life) of the Earth as one "cosmic organism". Man in it the earth's body performs positive functions, supporting regenerative and negative processes, destructive to the effects of viruses in the human body.

Man calls all his activities on Earth a civilization process but during this process civilizational acts on the Earth's body mostly destructively. So you can human civilization activities on Earth compare to the harmful effects of "viruses", which have led the Earth to a disease state already known, in which the Earth is already losing its auto-regenerating properties.

Some actions of some people (behaving like viruses on Earth in their own way) organisms) have contributed to the damage and diseases of Earth that they consequently cause accelerated development of many diseases in humans. Strangely, many of them have been called diseases civilization. The treatment of these civilization diseases (even causal ones) is from a point of view Earth as an organism is only symptomatic treatment! Civilization diseases are symptoms harmful effects of some people on the earthly body. A thinking, civilized Man he must realize that he has already grown out of the homo erectus era and must realize for himself that he cannot act like a virus in the earth's body, thus acting even to its detriment. Can't think in terms of "man is subject to everything on Earth - and especially to me"!

Don't be homo erectus.

Let every person think about eating, bathing, smoking, drinking, clothing, entertainment and loving as well at work he thinks and has in mind the possible destructive effects of his action on the earthly body In its immediate surroundings but also in the global and long-term aspect.

The responsibility of companies for harmful actions towards the Earth also lies with its employees in every position, not only decision-making but also executive, because protecting the Earth is a duty every intelligent person in every position.

Act as befits homo sapiens!

Specialists have already developed many lists of daily activities and behaviors that should slow down a optimally stop the Earth's civilization disease which is environmental devastation natural and negative climate change. We can call it an "anti-virus" list of actions for heal the earth.

We will publish a list of "anti-virus" actions against Earth worthy of homo sapiens systematically.
